INDIVIDUAL VOTE IMPORTANT

Dr. John Q. Stewart, member of the faculty of Princeton University has it figured out that in presidential elections the individual voter in a closely contested state may exert hundreds of times more influence in the makeup of the electoral college than a voter in a state where one candidate predominates

His computations show this inequality in past presidential elections, and indicate how large they may be in the coming election.

For example, he says, in 1936 New Hampshire's electoral vote of four would have been swung from Roosevelt if only 1910 voters had been persuaded to change to Landon. Accordingly four electoral votes were effectively controlled at the rate of 478 votes per electoral vote.

But in Mississippi it would have required a shift to Landon of 76,438 Roosevelt votes to swing nine electoral votes. This is at the rate of 8,493 votes per electoral vote.

Therefore it is fair to assert, Dr. Stewart says, that a Roosevelt voter in New Hampshire exerted about 18 times greater influence on the composition of the electoral college than a Roosevelt voter in

In the famous contest of 1884 a change to Blaine of 575 Cleveland votes in New York would have put the state's 36 electors in the Blaine column, and Blaine in the White House.

This case was at the rate of 16 votes per elector of the winning side.

From results of a recent sample nationwide poll Dr. Stewart estimates that this fall in Wyoming a Willkie voter stands to exert 38 times more electoral influence than the individual Roosevelt voter in Texas. In Wyoming, under this estimate, about 330 votes will control the electoral vote; in Texas, 12,500.

Some other states as estimated by Dr. Stewart on the basis of the straw poll, Delaware 800; Pennsylvania 2300; New York 2500; Ohio 3300; and New

To put the matter in another way, the professor says of the two extremes, an individual voter in Wyoming may be expected to control three thousandths of an electoral vote while an individual in Texas may control an eight-hundredth-thousandth.

HISTORIC DAY FOR THE COUNTY

Tomorrow will be a day that will go down in history, not only for the Indians at the Complanter reservations, but for the entire county. Any event that is honored by the presence of the governor of the commonwealth must be of outstanding importance and deserving of recognition by every citizen.

Governor Arthur H. James will be the first state executive to be adopted into the Cornplanter Indian tribe. That fact in itself is one that will go down in the annals in the state. He also will have the added distinction of being the first governor in many years, if ever, to make a personal visit to the reservation.

The Complanter Indian Committee of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Historical Societies, sponsoring the visit of the governor, is to be commended for promoting the ceremonial as one step toward establishing Chief Complanter and his Indians in the place they so richly deserve in the records of the past and in the esteem of the people of the Keystone State of today,

The registration clerk reminds county residents that they must register before October 5th, if they have not already done so, in order to be eligible to vote in Nevember. The presidential election is of paramount importance. There should be no vote slackers in Warern county.

The adoption ceremonies at the Complanter reservation will be public and every person is invited. Why not join the crowd and take a run up.

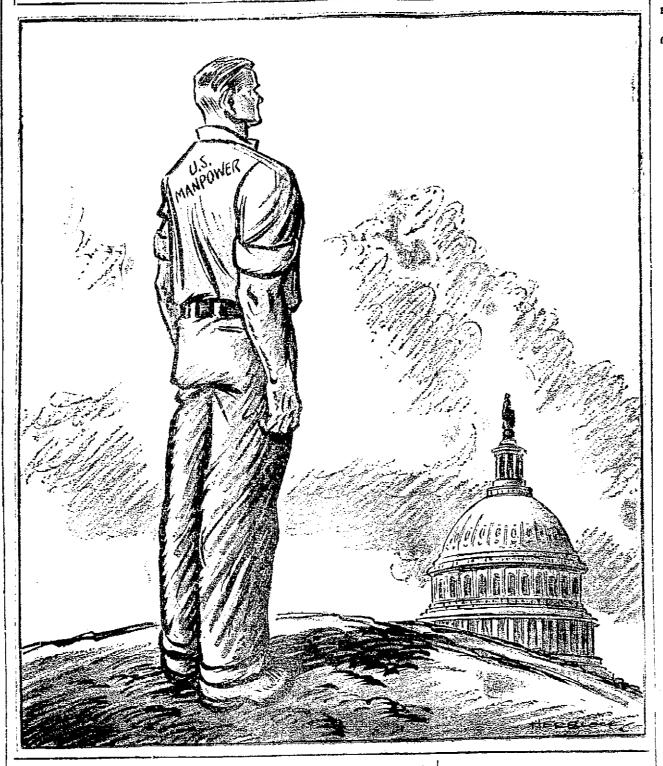

Nearby picnic grounds continue to attract crowds each evening in spite of the cooler weather and shorter evenings.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Cuba Advertises Cigar The Outing Club was the scene Industry With Stamps

CUBA'S tobacco industry receives a philatelic boost in a tobacco propaganda issue of three stamps. Cigars form the central design of each of three values. An Indian and a cigar are pictured on the stamp above. A cigar and a globe, and a box of cigars and a tobacco plant are shown on two other values.

Tobacco raising and the manufacture of cigars and cigarets are second in importance only to the island's sugar industry.

As the stamp shows, the American Indian was the first to use tobacco. Francisco Fernandes brought the first tobacco plant to Spain from Mexico in 1558. It was first used as a medicine.

Smoking was introduced in Europe by Ralph Lane, first governor of Virginia, in 1586. Lane brought Sir Walter Raleigh an Indian pipe, taught him to use it. The use of tobacco soon became popular at the English court, spread throughout the continent.

INDIVIDUAL VOTE IMPORTANT

Dr. John Q. Stewart, member of the faculty of Princeton University has it figured out that in presidential elections the individual voter in a closely contested state may exert hundreds of times more influence in the makeup of the electoral college than a voter in a state where one candidate predominates

His computations show this inequality in past presidential elections, and indicate how large they may be in the coming election.

For example, he says, in 1936 New Hampshire's electoral vote of four would have been swung from Roosevelt if only 1910 voters had been persuaded to change to Landon. Accordingly four electoral votes were effectively controlled at the rate of 478 votes per electoral vote.

But in Mississippi it would have required a shift to Landon of 76,438 Roosevelt votes to swing nine electoral votes. This is at the rate of 8,493 votes per electoral vote.

Therefore it is fair to assert, Dr. Stewart says, that a Roosevelt voter in New Hampshire exerted about 18 times greater influence on the composition of the electoral college than a Roosevelt voter in

In the famous contest of 1884 a change to Blaine of 575 Cleveland votes in New York would have put the state's 36 electors in the Blaine column. and Blaine in the White House.

This case was at the rate of 16 votes per elector of the winning side.

From results of a recent sample nationwide poll Dr. Stewart estimates that this fall in Wyoming a Willkie voter stands to exert 38 times more electoral influence than the individual Roosevelt voter in Texas. In Wyoming, under this estimate, about 330 votes will control the electoral vote; in Texas, 12,500.

Some other states as estimated by Dr. Stewart on the basis of the straw poll. Delaware 800; Pennsylvania 2300; New York 2500; Ohio 3300; and New Jersey 4600.

To put the matter in another way, the professor says of the two extremes, an individual voter in Wyoming may be expected to control three thousandths of an electoral vote while an individual in Texas may control an eight-hundredth-thousandth.

HISTORIC DAY FOR THE COUNTY

Tomorrow will be a day that will go down in history, not only for the Indians at the Complanter reservations, but for the entire county. Any event that is honored by the presence of the governor of the commonwealth must be of outstanding importance and deserving of recognition by every citizen.

Governor Arthur H. James will be the first state executive to be adopted into the Cornplanter Indian tribe. That fact in itself is one that will go down in the annals in the state. He also will have the added distinction of being the first governor in many years, if ever, to make a personal visit to the reservation.

The Complanter Indian Committee of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Historical Societies, sponsoring the visit of the governor, is to be commended for promoting the ceremonial as one step toward establishing Chief Cornplanter and his Indians in the place they so richly deserve in the records of the past and in the esteem of the people of the Keystone State of today.

The registration clerk reminds county residents that they must register before October 5th, if they have not already done so, in order to be eligible to vote in November. The presidential election is of paramount importance. There should be no vote slackers in Warern county.

The adoption ceremonies at the Cornplanter reservation will be public and every person is invited. Why not join the crowd and take a run up.

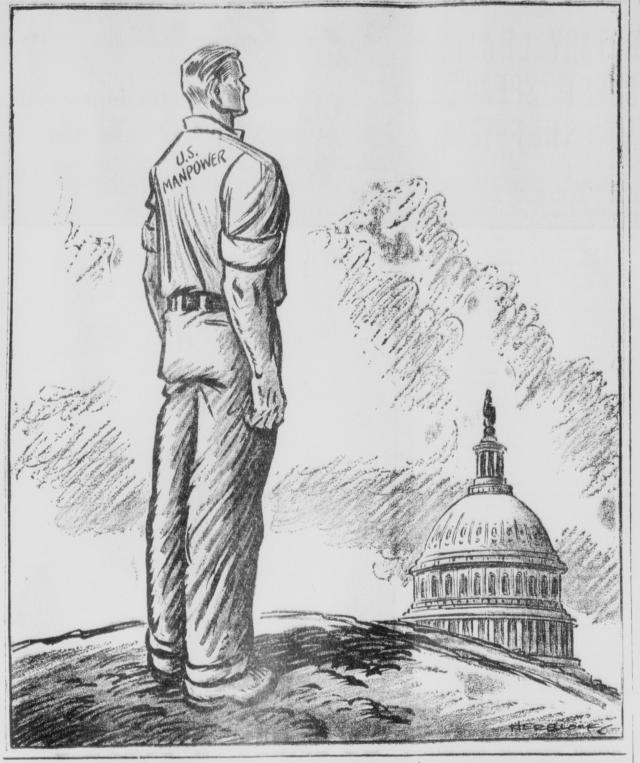

Nearby picnic grounds continue to attract crowds each evening in spite of the cooler weather and shorter evenings.

Cuba Advertises Cigar Industry With Stamps

CUBA'S tobacco industry receives a philatelic boost in a tobacco propaganda issue of three stamps. Cigars form the central design of each of three values. An Indian and a cigar are pictured on the stamp above. A cigar and a globe, and a box of cigars and a tobacco plant are shown on two other values.

Tobacco raising and the manufacture of cigars and cigarets are second in importance only to the island's sugar industry.

As the stamp shows, the American Indian was the first to use tobacco. Francisco Fernandes brought the first tobacco plant to Spain from Mexico in 1558. It was first used as a medicine.

Smoking was introduced in Europe by Ralph Lane, first governor of Virginia, in 1586. Lane brought Sir Walter Raleigh an Indian pipe, taught him to use it. The use of tobacco soon became popular at the English court, spread throughout the continent.

Wilder Field, Irvine, at 8:30 Tribe Rides Into Series on Keltner's Homer: The Wonder Is Joe Cronin Isn't Gray-Haired: Pitching 75 Per Cent of It . . . and Then Some

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

EN KELLLER'S home run with the bases full in the eighth inning in Boston the other afternoon will go down in history with the one Gabby Hartnett hit for the Cubs to scuttle the Pirates in the final week of 1938

It further illustrates the power of the poke. Keltner no doubt swatted the Cleveland club smack dab into world series with his drive over the left field wall at Fenway

The Red Sox had the great Bob Feller beaten, 5-2, going into the eventful round. They had thumped a variety of pitchers the day before. Anything might have happened had they made it two in a row.

The Sox won't be mad if they never see Keltner again. Six of the Milwaukeean's 12 home runs of this season have sent CLUB OPENS SATURDAY Six of the Milwaukeean's 12 home runs of this season have sen Joe Cronin away from parks teeming with rage and disappointment.

KELTNER manufactured another four-run homer as the Redskins made up a seven-run deficit in the eighth to prevail, 12-11, in Cleveland's huge Municipal Stadium, July 31.

Cronin must have had misgivings as Emerson Dickman tossed that home run ball in the Hub. Keltner is the only athlete ever to hit three home runs in one game at Fenway, and the third baseman performed the feat at the expense of Dickman last summer. Cronin is not yet 34, but the wonder is that he is not as gray-haired as Judge Landis. The pitching has been that bad in his six years in Boston Thomas Austin Yawkey spent a fortune for players. The Red Sox have the remarkable sluggers, Ted Williams, Lou Finney, Jimmy Foxx and Jim Tabor. Every man in the batting order can paste the pill THEY have an able and fiery leader in Cronin, a remarkable second baseman in Bobby Doerr and an amazing centerfielder in Dominic DiMaggio. When the catching was none too good, the versatile Foxx volunteered to do it, and clicked from the start. The Red Sox easily could have won the last two years and this power is of no use, he declared. Senator Glass (D-Va.) today joined the ranks of conscription advocates battling the proposal for a postponement of compulsory military service until Jan. 1. "I think we have postponed Revealed Until Given Him getting prepared for years," he said to reporters, "and I am not in favor of postponing action for another day."

Glass previously had announced his support of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory training bill, now in its eleventh day of debate, but did not express his views until today on the amendment. Hopes were exceedingly slim however, that a final vote could be obtained in the Senate this week on the Burke-Wadsworth legislation. Because of this outlook, leaders agreed before the start of today's session to sidetrack resumption of debate, pending action on call up approximately 396,000 Naservists for active duty.

AMUSEMENTS -

AT LIBRARY THEATRE

A sure cure for the blues, rating a laugh a minute, opened at the Library theatre yesterday for an engagement of two days in "I Love You Again," co-starring William Powell and Myrna Loy.

STRESS THEIR MARK SMANSHIP

Airplanes, tanks and tractors are leading U. S. Marines to become more motor minded in the opinion of Sergeant Charles R. Souza, recruiting officer of the Marine Corps, at Room 207, Post Office Bldg. However, marksmanship is still as important as mechanization, he believes.

Changing conditions experienced by the sea soldiers in different campaigns call for different types of weapons and equipment. Tanks, and even airplanes under some circumstances might not be of pri mary importance. The expert marksmanship of bombers, gunners, or riflemen cannot be valued too highly, he thinks.

Tanks were tried out by the sea soldiers long ago and numerous other devices and firearms have been tested on maneuvers. Some
